

2008 - "A DREAM VINTAGE"

"Summer temperatures were so cool in Oregon in 2008 that Pinot Noir producers worried that they would never get their grapes ripe. But when the calendar turned to October, the sun came out and kept shining until all the grapes were in. Temperatures stayed warm but not hot. In cellar after cellar on a visit this past September I tasted barrels, tanks and just-bottled wines of light texture and refinement, with glowing flavors, silky tannins, long finishes and that elusive element every Pinot Noir producer seeks - finesse. When the stars align, as in 2008, it can result in that perfect vintage Oregon vintners dream about."

Food Pairing: A good choice given the earthiness of the Estate Pinot would include mushrooms, perhaps in a risotto, accompanied by a nice freshly grilled salmon fillet. Another choice would be partially-boned quail, started on the grill, and finished in the oven. Check our web site for a roast quail recipe.

FRUIT SOURCE: Bethel Heights is one of the oldest vineyards in the Eola-Amity Hills, a hill chain of volcanic origin in the center of Oregon's Willamette Valley. The "Black Label" Estate Grown Pinot Noir blends fruit from all the different sections of the 70-acre estate, with its backbone of own-rooted Wädenswil and Pommard clones planted in 1977 and 1979, enhanced by the later plantings of the best new Dijon clones available after 1988.

VINIFICATION: In 2008 the fruit was gently destemmed, cold soaked at 45 degrees for 5 days, then gradually allowed to warm up prior to yeast inoculation. The fruit was punched down twice per day at the onset of fermentation, three times per day at peak temperature (1-2 days) and then pumped over twice per day until dryness. The new wine was then settled for 72 hours prior to racking to French oak barrels.

We've rarely seen such concentration at these pH and alcohol levels at Bethel Heights, and it is a part of the puzzle of what makes 2008 such a special vintage.

91 WINE ADVOCATE

"The 2008 Pinot Noir Estate Grown [has] an expansive, spicy bouquet, cherry, and black raspberry aromas leading to a wine with excellent concentration, layers of fruit, and enough ripe tannin to evolve for 2-3 years. This well-balanced, lengthy wine will be at its best from 2012 to 2020."
